

In a free ultrasound, her mom saw Adelaide's heartbeat, saw her sweet profile, and watched her move around like the healthy, growing baby she was. And like over 80 percent of babies who are viewed on ultrasound, Adelaide was given the gift of life.

But unlike Adelaide's baby bottle, the one you're being offered isn't a toy. It's an opportunity to save and change lives, just like Adelaide's and her mommy's.

Take this bottle home today and fill it with your spare change, cash, a check, or even a credit card voucher. Then bring the bottle back on Collection Day to help support this local pregnancy center do the important work of:

- Sharing truth and options
- Providing support to women alone in their pregnancies
- Providing classes on parenting and life skills
- Providing baby clothes and items
- Introducing moms to their beautiful babies through free ultrasounds

They can't do this without you!

By filling this simple baby bottle, you're giving the gift of life just like Adelaide was given when her mommy walked into that pregnancy center all alone.

Like most little girls, Adelaide loves to feed her baby doll with a bottle. But Adelaide may not have had that chance if not for a local pregnancy center.

You see, Adelaide's mommy found herself unexpectedly pregnant, alone, with no resources or help. Abortion seemed her only option. Fortunately, she went to a local pregnancy center for help. There she received love, and information, where all her options were fully explained, giving her the support she truly needed.

But most importantly, she met Adelaide.
